A STATEMENT OF PURPOSE

The purpose of the Citizens Committee for Emergency Vocational Training is to promote the economic and cultural well-being of the total community by reducing unemployment and underemployment in the most afflicted areas. To this end, the committee brings about short-term vocational training programs when a shortage of employees with a particular skill arises in a given industry. The Committee offers its services to bring together representatives of that industry, vocational training specialists, potential trainees, and all the other resources of the community needed to institute such a program. The Committee recognizes that its activities must be consistent with the demands of the profit motive as well as the good will and enlightened long-range self-interest of the industry--which, in the end, coincides with that of the whole community.

BACKGROUND

In the Fall of 1967 the University of California Extension conducted a six-week Community Seminar in which concerned citizens discussed and studied the problems of education, housing, and employment in San Diego County. A number of participants have translated their concern into action, and have now incorporated themselves into the Citizens Committee for Emergency Vocational Training.

Our efforts are entirely voluntary. There is no fee for our services. We simply want to help San Diego become a better place in which to live. We also want to give private initiative a chance to supplement, if not supplant, the widespread activities of the government. And, above all, we want to provide as many San Diegans as possible with an opportunity to live with the dignity that comes from being a productive member of one's community.

Dear Dorothy,
This group also grew out of the UCSD seminar series. Leon Nower is active in ICIG also.
