CMS-0097-008-011-014

Pepperdine University

MASTERS DEGREE PROGRAM

HUMAN RESOURCES MANAGEMENT

Pepperdine University at Santa Ana, through its Center for Innovative Education, will offer the Master of Arts in Human Resources Management degree in San Diego. This flexible degree program is designed for military and civilian personnel who now have or aspire to management responsibilities in human relations agencies. Examples of such organizations include a race relations unit in the military, a drug and alcohol abuse program, an equal opportunity program, an organizational development or affirmative action program unit in private industry, and a voluntary community service agency.

FEATURES

- Convenient course locations
- Admission requirement - undergraduate degree with acceptable GPA
- Non-sequential course offerings
- 33 semester hour degree program
- Continuous enrollments
- Traditional and non-traditional transfer credit
- GRE and thesis not required
- Full V.A. tuition reimbursement
- Realistic degree completion opportunities

CURRICULUM ORGANIZATION

I. Organization and Management (15 semester hours)

*HRM 610	Organization and Management of Public and Community Organizations
*HRM 630	Budgeting and Finance of Governmental and Community Organizations
HRM 590	Research Methodology
HRM 613	Human Resources Management and the Legal Process
HRM 662	Administration of Social Agencies
HRM 663	Community Organizations
HRM 690	Funding Sources and Proposal Preparation
HRM 615	Organizational Development

II. Human Relations (18 semester hours)

*HRM 650	Managerial Psychology: Individual and Group Behavior
*HRM 652	Managerial Sociology: Organizational, Social, and Cultural Behavior
*HRM 654	Human Relations: Interpersonal and Intergroup Behavior
HRM 655	Human Relations: A Practical Program, Theory, and Implementation
HRM 667	Social Psychology
HRM 670	American Minority Relations
HRM 695	Internship in Human Resources Management

*Required core courses

For further information, contact Jo H. Volkert, Pepperdine University, San Diego Center: (714)224-0525.