convention in Kansas City last week, said he would attend a conference in Los Angeles today at which California CORE leaders will discuss their action at the Republican National Convention in San Francisco.

Meanwhile, in Municipal Court yesterday attorneys for six of the 10 CORE members arrested at Bank of America demonstrations filed legal objections to the charges on which they were arrested.

Presiding Judge John F. Martin granted a continuance to 11 a.m. Friday to allow the city attorney's office to study the objections. The defendants were arrested on June 26 on charges of trespassing, obstructing a business, and willfully disobeying a lawful court order. All the defendants are free on ball.

Bank of America has obtained a temporary restraining order against CORE in a suit seeking a permanent injunction which would prohibit mass picketing and activities which delay the conduct of business. The court order limits CORE to placing no more than four pickets at any bank entrance.

The Congress of Racial Equality yesterday announced plans for a "protest march" in San Diego Friday.

Harold Brown, president of the San Diego chapter, said the march would begin at 3:30 p.m. at 30th Street and Imperial Avenue in Logan Heights and move to Horton Plaza downtown. He said it would have three purposes:

2. To protest against racial discrimination in San Diego and elsewhere.

3. To protest against the arrest of San Diego CORE members for demonstrating against the Bank of America.

Brown, one of 11 CORE members who have been arrested at Bank of America branches here, announced plans for the march at a press conference yesterday at CORE headquarters, 2965 Imperial Ave.

He also said that members of the local chapter will continue demonstrating against Bank of America at the risk of further arrests for violation of a court order forbidding trespassing and limiting picketing at the bank branches.

Brown said CORE intends to keep up its demonstrations until Bank of America yields to CORE demands for a "memorandum of understanding" covering the hiring policies of the bank in all cities where it does business.
