

Chicago Format for Citations

For additional information and examples consult the Chicago Manual of Style, 15th edition (Z 253 C57 15th ed. 2003 Reference Desk). Online resources with examples are listed at the end of this page.

Documenting Within the Paper

Chicago has two documentation styles. If your professor has not stipulated which to use, check with her/him before you begin.

The older style, used mainly in the humanities and history, is the "Notes and Bibliography" system. Here bibliographic information is presented in the accompanying notes, which may be either footnotes contained in the body of the paper, or endnotes grouped together at the end of the paper. Notes contain only the material you cite. The first line of each note is indented two spaces or a quarter of an inch. The footnote number should be placed at the end of the sentence after the period and quotation mark if there is one. Notice how it appears at the end of this sentence.¹

It is highly recommended that you also provide a bibliography at the end of the paper, listing all works cited as well as other works you read but did not cite. If you use a bibliography, your notes will contain only brief information about the works cited. This combination of notes and bibliography is the preferred system.

Examples of the Notes and Bibliography System

Book

In the Bibliography

Braudel, Fernand. The Mediterranean and the Mediterranean World in the Age of Philip II, 2vols., translated by Sian Reynolds. New York: Harper & Row, 1972.

Note in the Paper

26. Braudel, Mediterranean World, 2:1080.

Chapter or Essay within an Edited Book

In the Bibliography

Thorne, Rosalind. "The Classical City." In Classical Greece: 500-323 BC, edited by Robin Osborne, 52-80. Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2000.

Note in the Paper

9. Thorne, "Classical City," 78.

Journal Article

Issue numbers are not required, but should be used if present. If you use an issue number, there is no requirement to include a month as part of the date, but you can.

In the Bibliography

Baldasty, Gerald J. "The Economics of Working-Class Journalism." Journalism History 25, no. 1 (1999): 3-10.

Note in the Paper

10. Baldasty, "Working-Class Journalism," 8.

Journal Article Obtained Online

Citation style varies slightly based on the source of the article, whether it was obtained from a publisher's website (University of Chicago Press, Elsevier) or an aggregator (The History Cooperative, JSTOR, Academic Search Premier). Items obtained from a publisher site, use the entire URL; articles obtained from an aggregator site, need only the entry level URL. If an article has a DOI (Digital Object Identifier) you will use that in place of page numbers. The date of access at the end of the citation is optional. Again, check with your instructor to see if s/he requires it.

From a Publisher's Website

In the Bibliography

Wink, Andre. "From the Mediterranean to the Indian Ocean: Medieval History in Geographic Perspective." Comparative Studies in Society and History 44, no. 3 (July 2002):416-445. <http://journals.cambridge.org/> bin/bladerunner?REQUNIQ=1062631423&REQSESS=12025650&118200REQEVENT=&REQINT1=118257&REQAUTH=0 (accessed August 30, 2002).

Note in the Paper

44. Wink, "Mediterranean to the Indian Ocean," 420.

From a Publisher's Website with DOIs

In the Bibliography

Rosseau, Constance M. "A Papal Matchmaker: Principle and Pragmatism during Innocent III's Pontificate." Journal of Medieval History 24, no. 3 (September 1998), doi:10.1016/S0304-4181(98)00010-4. http://dx.doi.org/10.1016/S0304-4181\(98\)00010-400010-4) (accessed August 29, 2003).

Note in the Paper

105. Rosseau, "Papal Matchmaker," 300-301.

From an Aggregator's Website

In the Bibliography

Wills, John E., Jr. "Maritime Asia, 1500-1800: The Interactive Emergence of European Domination." American Historical Review 98 (1993): 83-105. <http://search.ebscohost.com/> (accessed August 30, 2002).

Note in the Paper

29. Wills, 100.

Website

Information needed: Author's name. "Title of the Page." Title or Owner of Site. URL. Use the owner/ name of a website, if an author cannot be determined. Optional: Date of access in parentheses.

In the Bibliography

Internet East Asian Sourcebook. "The Yin Fu King, or Classic of the Harmony of the Seen and Unseen, c. 800 C.E." <http://www.fordham.edu/halsall/eastasia/800yinfukung.html> (accessed September 10, 2003).

Note in the Paper

116. "The Yin Fu King."

Examples of Using Notes Only

Book

First-time Note in a Paper

26. Fernand Braudel, The Mediterranean and the Mediterranean World in the Age of Philip II, trans. Sian Reynolds (New York: Harper & Row, 1972), 1: 306-312.

Subsequent Citation Notes

27. Braudel, Mediterranean World, 2:1080

Chapter or Essay within an Edited Book

First-time Note in a Paper

5. Rosalind Thorne, "The Classical City," in Classical Greece: 500-323 BC, ed. Robin Osborne (Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2000), 55.

Subsequent Citation Notes

9. Thorne, "Classical City," 78.

Journal Article

Issue numbers are not required, but should be used if present. If you use an issue number, there is no requirement to include a month as part of the date, but you can.

First-time Note in a Paper

10. Gerald J. Baldasty, "The Economics of Working-Class Journalism," Journalism History 25 (1999): 8.

Subsequent Citation Notes

12. Baldasty, "Working-Class Journalism," 10.

Journal Article Obtained Online

Citation style varies slightly based on the source of the article, whether it was obtained from a publisher's website (University of Chicago Press, Elsevier) or an aggregator (The History Cooperative, JSTOR, Academic Search Premier). Items obtained from a publisher site use the entire URL; articles obtained from an aggregator site need only entry level URL. If an article has a DOI (Digital Object Identifier) you will use that in place of page numbers. The date of access at the end of the citation is optional. Again, check with your instructor to see if s/he requires it.

From a Publisher's Website

First-time Note in a Paper

44. Andre Wink, "From the Mediterranean to the Indian Ocean: Medieval History in Geographic Perspective," Comparative Studies in Society and History 44, no. 3 (July 2002):420,
<http://journals.cambridge.org/bin/bladerunner?REQUNIQ=1062631423&REQSESS=12025650&118200REQEVENT=&REQINT1=118257&REQAUTH=0> (accessed August 30, 2002).

Subsequent Citation Notes

47. Wink, "Mediterranean to the Indian Ocean," 425.

From a Publisher's Website with DOIs

First-time Note in a Paper

105. Constance M. Rosseau, "A Papal Matchmaker: Principle and Pragmatism during Innocent III's Pontificate." Journal of Medieval History 24, no. 3 (September 1998), doi:10.1016/S0304-4181(98)00010-4. http://dx.doi.org/10.1016/S0304-4181\(98\)00010-400010-4) (accessed August 29, 2003).

Subsequent Citation Notes

106. Rosseau, "Papal Matchmaker," 300-301.

From an Aggregator's Website

First-time Note in a Paper

25. John E. Wills, Jr., "Maritime Asia, 1500-1800: The Interactive Emergence of European Domination," American Historical Review 98 (1993): 90, <http://search.ebscohost.com/>.

Subsequent Citation Notes

29. Wills, 100.

Website

Information needed: Author's name, "Title of Website," URL, Optional: Date of access in parentheses.

First-time Note in a Paper

115. Internet East Asian Sourcebook, "The Yin Fu King, or Classic of the Harmony of the Seen and Unseen, c. 800 C.E.," <http://www.fordham.edu/halsall/eastasia/800yinfukung.html>, (accessed September 10, 2003).

Subsequent Citation Notes

116. "Yin Fu King."

This style guide was designed by the San Diego State University Library staff.