Dear Mom and Dad,

Hi! I thought I would write you a little note while I had a few spare minutes. I'll have to be going to my P.E. class soon. My classes are O.K. Nutrition is coming along as expected I guess. At least I am learning about what is good to eat and what isn't so good to eat. My nursing class is getting better now because we are finally going to be going to the hospital. We went last Friday for Orientation. I will be at Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital. It is a Catholic (woopee!) hospital and is three stories - Bigger than Davis Community Hospital but not real huge or anything. One thing it does have is something called The famous Kelley Institute. I don't know what it does, though. It's supposed to have something good in it, though. At any rate Santa Rosa is supposed to be a top-notch school - at least I think anyone from here who took the State Board passed it. It has a 99% passing rate or something. Anyway someone told me that they flunk everyone out of their program first, before they get a chance to flunk the State Board. I'm excited about becoming a nurse practitioner. You have to have at least one year of experience in nursing, and then you can go to Davis (or wherever it is and take their program. I think it is as high as you can go in the field of nursing but I'm not sure. I'm going to talk to one of the nurses at church about it. I have been practicing the piano a lot here at the practicing rooms in Santa Rosa. It's really fun because the small rooms make the pianos sound really grand.

The car has been doing fine. I haven't driven it around too much except if I take it to the hospital or if someone can't drive another car to school. It works fine compared to the old clunks we have down here. Our dorm is fixed up much nicer than the one last year. If you ever visit, you can see the difference. We have hanging candles and pictures and posters all over the walls. It's much more homey than before - probably because all the floors have rugs on them.

I wanted to thank you both for the car. It was such a surprise to me. I was expecting to get an old used car, but I guess this really is more economical in the long run. I'm not sure how soon I will be able to come again to visit and transfer cars, but it will probably be the week after you get back - around November 3 or 4 or whenever that weekend is. Anyway I'll write or get in touch with you again. You will have seen Pat & Becky by the time you get this. I hope you had a good time there.

Love,
Annie
