

Dear Mom And Dad, A-4

1/27/77

It was good to see you for some of the holidays. The Winchester House was certainly interesting. I have always wondered what it was all about. Sorry I wasn't more simulating but I guess I was right at the peak of that cold. I feel much better now.

Well I guess you heard that we had an earthquake or tremor here just the other night. I was right in the middle of taking care of a patient and the building sure did begin to shake. I was somewhat surprised although not at all scared and as I was changing Violet's dressing I said "Oh my, Violet, I think we are getting ready to drop into the ocean." Unfortunately this scared Violet to death and everything I said after that didn't help the situation any. I guess the next time we have a tremor I better not take it so lightly. I figured that there is no use panicking because that isn't going to control the earth's faults and make them quit shifting. I didn't know a 40 year old woman would be so upset at the thought of an earthquake.

Well, I Am on a day off here right now. Kim had a good time in South America and seemed to enjoy himself. He came back with a little tan although Maria, the girl who was taking care of him said she was trying to keep him out of the sun because she was afraid he would burn.

THE FOUR-LEAF CLOVER
Winslow Homer, American, 1836-1910
Bequest of Robert H. Tannahill
The Detroit Institute of Arts

Well I need to get busy doing some other stuff now. Thank you for the nice Christmas gifts.

Love,
Annie