History of the San Diego Symphony Orchestra

- December 1987 Yoav Talmi begins series of five performances as guest conductor of the symphony.
- April 1990 Symphony Hall renamed Copley Symphony Hall, in recognition of a $2.5 million gift from Helen K. Copley, chairperson of the Copley Press and publisher of The San Diego Union-Tribune, whose support helped retire the remaining debt on the hall's renovation.
- October 1990 Yoav Talmi appointed Music Director of the San Diego Symphony Orchestra.
- 1993 Further renovations and a state-of-the-art acoustical shell, made possible through a gift from Dr. Irwin and Joan Jacobs, transform Copley Symphony Hall into one of the finest performance spaces in the West.
- January 1994 Naxos record company signs Yoav Talmi and the San Diego Symphony Orchestra to record complete, non-operatic orchestral works of Hector Berlioz on several compact discs. First disc, recorded in January, features seven Berlioz Overtures.
- October 1994 First Naxos recording of Berlioz Overtures released on October 1st, coinciding with 1994-95 Gala Opening Night performance.
- San Diego Symphony Orchestra record-breaking season subscriptions total more than $1 million as the 1994-95 Winter Season opens--more than all subscription revenue during entire 1993-94 season.

San Diego Symphony Orchestra

San Diego Symphony Orchestra History . . .

1995

As the Naxos recording contract continues with two new Berlioz CD's recorded, the San Diego Symphony Orchestra plays to national acclaim as regional writers including the Los Angeles Times sing the praises of Yoav Talmi and the outstanding musicianship of the orchestra players.

Three new series including the Classic Encounters Rush Hour Concerts, the Great Performers series and the Beethoven in Escondido festival sell out.

Ticket sales continue to soar--by another 30 percent.

Mr. Goldband is here
1988 - 2001

1996: The San Diego Symphony is mired in a Chapter 7 bankruptcy, pushed by the then-mayor and the board. Attempts to change the level of bankruptcy to a Chapter 11, which would save the library, instruments and, possibly, the hall, continue breaking down.

1997: Local businessman Larry Robinson offers a plan including a contribution of two million dollars to pay off some creditors and to save the assets, including Symphony Hall. This allowed the bankruptcy level to be raised to a Chapter 11, and to allow a newborn Board to plan a recurrence of the concerts. However, wrangling among varied groups, including the previous and the new boards, continued, and no plans were effectively formulated.

1998: The previous board retires, plans are prepared to reconstitute the orchestra and its seasons, and the court approves these in mid-June. Jung Ho Pak leads the first summer “pops” at the end of July, to everyone’s great relief. In October, Pak, as Artistic Director, begins the 1998-99 season at Symphony Hall.

1999: Pak continues the winter season, with Catherine Comet and Stanislaw Skrowacevski as guests. Tom Gerdorn leaves as acting manager at the beginning of the summer season. Despite bad weather, the summer season is financially successful, and Pak opens the 1999-2000 season in October.

2000: Attendance continues as a nagging problem for the winter series. In March, Douglas Gearhart is hired as the new executive director. His reputation was of a man who had successfully turned around several other financially-stressed orchestras. Pak ends the season with the Beethoven Ninth, to good reviews but sparse attendance. Good summer attendance did not quite compensate for the winter season’s disappointing figures. The U-T started to push for the creation of an endowment.

2001: Yoav Talmi returns as a successful guest conductor, and Jung Ho Pak resigns. The summer season earns a large profit, probably based on a series of guest rock performers. Advance sales for the winter season, featuring probable candidates for the musical directorship exceeded $900,000.

2002: The incredible, overwhelming, Jacobs gift is announced in January, creating a large endowment and also supplying funds for continued expenses, completely changing the tenor of everyone's feelings and ideas about the orchestra. Doug Gearhart resigns as executive director and Ward Gill is hired to replace him. The series of guest conductors continues into the next season, one of whom, Jahja Ling, impressed the orchestra and the audience with a performance of the Mahler Fifth Symphony.

OUR SINCERE THANKS to the many organizations and individuals who have helped us in countless ways to make this season possible, and in particular to:

The Music Department of the San Diego Unified School District
The Music Department of San Diego State College
The Junior League of San Diego
The San Diego Opera Guild

and all our friends of the Press, Radio and Television, without whose hearty cooperation our summer and winter activities would not be possible.

Fanfare for the Common

In his quiet way, Aaron Copland has written more music for the last 25 years. I think more than any other single source. His American compositions (including "Country's musical memory. His melodic style and "lonely" I think with unique conviction. His music on commission by the Cincinnati Symphony ordered during the war (including French horn) and percussion. Common Man of dedication, storm.

Chichester Psalms

In spite of his considerable reputation as a lecturer, it is remarkably easy to understand Copland's American music. There is a youthful and sentimentality, qualities a young man. The Psalms were commissioned for the Chichester Psalms and were set in Hebrew for the Chichester Psalms. It includes a complete biblical psalm.

A distinctively dissonant and dramatic. As a sort of introit it is a harp! I will rouse the dawn."

SAN DIEGO SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA ASSOCIATION HONORS THE NATIONAL ENDOWMENT FOR THE ARTS

On December 18, 1980, David E. Porter, President of the San Diego Symphony Orchestra Association announced that the Association had been awarded a $400,000 Challenge Grant from the National Endowment for the Arts. The grant will provide a catalyst to generate new sources of financial support from private and local sources. Each Federal dollar must be matched with three dollars of new or increased gifts from individuals, corporations and foundations for a total of $1.2 million by June 30, 1982.

The Association will use the grant and matching funds to reduce accumulated debts, re-establish an operating reserve, cover increased costs, create an endowment and help fund a possible future move to a new or remodeled concert hall. The Association's Challenge Grant is the eighth largest N.E.A. Challenge Grant in the nation and the largest grant to a symphony awarded in 1981. The grant is one of 84 totaling approximately $15 million for fiscal 1981 announced in Washington, D.C. by Arts Endowment Chairman, Livingston L. Biddle, Jr. The 15th anniversary of the NEA was marked on September 29, 1980. Since that time, the federal agency has had a dramatic impact on the cultural life of the nation. The number of opera companies has doubled; orchestras have tripled; dance and theatre fields report 10-fold increases; the artist work force has doubled; and audiences tripled.

"It is both rewarding and challenging to have so closely followed the Endowment's progress, and to now help guide it toward new goals and accomplishments," Biddle commented. As Chairman of the Endowment since 1977, Biddle noted that the agency's budget has risen from $2.5 million in 1965 to a record $154.4 million by 1980.

The Association also receives $72,000 annually in NEA funds to support Young People's Concerts and the summer season.

New increased gifts to the San Diego Symphony Orchestra Association will be used to match the $400,000 Challenge Grant from the NEA. Each $3.00 contributed will release $1.00 in Federal Funds. Your generous response will help launch this campaign successfully.

For more information contact Wes Hallock, Development Director, San Diego Symphony Orchestra, P.O. Box 3175, San Diego 92103, 239-9721.

Music Director-Designate's Message

A vital element of building a great orchestra is building a great audience. I believe the two go hand-in-hand, heart-to-heart. Subscribers are always the fundamental backbone of any great orchestra. As a subscriber, you are not just a concert-goer, you are a member of the San Diego Symphony family — a family of supporters which bestows upon the orchestra the trust that it will produce wonderful programs and bring you the most exciting and exquisite performances.

In entering the San Diego scene as Music Director-Designate of this orchestra, I shall direct all my efforts toward providing the highest quality performances for our subscribers and music lovers. Unfortunately, the current season was designed and planned before my appointment and due to circumstances, I shall conduct only three programs during the season. It is, however, an intriguing season which offers a wide choice of marvelous programs and renowned artists.

I am a true believer in the high quality and great ability of the San Diego Symphony, therefore, I wish to invite you, your family and your friends to join the subscriber family of the San Diego Symphony.

— Yoav Talmi

Yoav Talmi
Music Director

In addition to 12 programs with the orchestra this season, Music Director Yoav Talmi's conducting schedule includes appearances with major orchestras worldwide. He is appearing with the Ohio Philharmonic, Lehar Symphony Orchestra, both the Italian Radio Orchestra, Rome, and Santa Cecilia Orchestra in Rome, Spain's Radio-Telefon Orchestra in Madrid, the Scottish Chamber Orchestra (in both Edinburgh and London), the Basel Symphony, the Jerusalem Symphony and the Buffalo Philharmonic.

Meistro Talmi debuted with the San Diego Symphony in December, 1987 and began his tenure as Music Director in October, 1990. In prior seasons, he has also conducted the New York Chamber Symphony, the Waterloo Music Festival in New Jersey, the Paris Philharmonic Orchestra of Radio France, the New Japan Philharmonic in Tokyo, the Finnish Radio Orchestra in Helsinki, the Oslo Philharmonic, the Zurich Tonhalle Orchestra, the BBC Scottish Orchestra in Glasgow and the New Zealand Symphony.

North American engagements have included the Detroit, Houston, Saint Louis, Dallas, Indianapolis, Seattle and Vancouver symphony orchestras as well as the New York Chamber Symphony, the Los Angeles Chamber Orchestra and Ottawa's National Arts Center Orchestra. Summer festivals in which he appeared include the Aspen Festival, the Waterloo Festival, the Helsinki Festival and the Israel Festival in Jerusalem.

Meistro Talmi served as artistic director and conductor of the Gelders Orchestra in Arnhem, the Netherlands (1974-80), principal guest conductor of the Munich Philharmonic (1979-80), and most recently music director of both the Israeli Chamber Orchestra (1984-88) and New Israel Opera (1985-88). He is a graduate of the Rubin Academy of Music in Tel-Aviv and the Juilliard School in New York, as both conductor and composer.

Wesley O. Brustad
Executive Director

Wesley O. Brustad became Executive Director of the San Diego Symphony Orchestra Association in September, 1986. During his tenure, the Association eradicated all past debt of nearly $8.0 million, secured the naming gift for Copley Symphony Hall, engaged a new Music Director and restored funding credibility to the Association.

Brustad also serves on the Board of Directors of the American Symphony Orchestra League and both its Nominating and Government Committees.

Prior to coming to San Diego, Brustad was Executive Director of the Los Angeles Chamber Orchestra. Earlier, he was Executive Director and General Manager of the Spokane Symphony Orchestra, executive producer of The Creative Factory, a film and television development company, president of Phoenix Entertainment, a multimedia entertainment production group, Assistant Director of the Ohio Arts Council, and Executive Vice President of the South Carolina Arts Foundation. He also held positions with the Tyrone Guthrie Theater in Minnesota and the Tennessee Performing Arts Center in Nashville.

Brustad received his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Washington school of drama. In addition to acting, he has performed as a musician, and directed and produced theater and television productions, most notably the musical spectacular for national tour and network television "Fa, Thersday (and All That Jazz)"

The San Diego Symphony Orchestra Association gratefully thanks and acknowledges Dr. Judson and Rachel Grosvenor for their sponsorship of Music Director Yoav Talmi.
